Project Module

Friday, 14.9. – Monday, 17.9. | Project development

During the Project Module participants work closely with experts on design concepts for the respective topic. In the process, they develop further research questions which can be relevant for new international cooperation projects. Each group works on one of the questions that occurred during the Research Module.

Accompanying the working process, the single working steps will be visualized on display panels and documented in form of a weblog. This facilitates the feedback from the individual groups as well as from the entire group of experts and serves simultaneously as assistance in the process of solution. Interim conclusions will be discussed by the individual groups as well as with the experts. This will productively encourage the teamwork and inspire the design development.

The program is for participants only.
